ABOUT MARY ELLEN NORTHROP

Upon her death in 2021, Mary Ellen Northrop left to The Music School of Delaware a bequest in the form of a trust fund for music education, carrying her name. She had specific intentions regarding the bequest, and these are reflected in the eligibility requirements and the application form. Here is some background information about Ms. Northrop.

Mary Ellen Northrop died on June 29, 2021, at her home in Wilmington, DE. She was born in Westfield, NY, and grew up in Ripley, NY, where her family managed a large fruit, grape, and dairy operation. She received her A.B. degree, cum laude, from Syracuse University in 1965 and received her M.L.S. degree from Rutgers University in 1966. She received her M.B.A. degree in finance from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania in 1976.

Mary Ellen was a reference librarian at the University of Iowa and at Douglass College of Rutgers University, and a supervisor of the technical services department at the Plainfield (NJ) Public Library. She was a budget analyst at the Erie (PA) General Electric Company and a financial analyst and income tax analyst at the duPont Company.

Ms. Northrop had a deep love of music. Over the years, she participated in music programs at local churches, playing clarinet solos and singing in the choir. By including the Music School as one of the beneficiaries of the Trust, she ensured that others would be able to share her joy for years to come.
